

IT'S NOT A

Happy Valentines Day

IN MORIA

This is the environment in which over 10,000 Refugees on the Greek Island of Lesbos will be spending Valentines Day, the International Day of Love. Referred to as "Moria 2.0" after their first camp was burnt down, the inhabitants of the Moria Refugee Camp will spend Valentine's Day in a 'facility' which does not offer a single shower, without any drainage leaving them prone to flooding following light rainfall, and temporary tents that do not offer any insulation to extreme temperatures which soar by day and freeze by night. Refugees who fled war and conflict for the chance of a better life need your help.
